Education for All

Universal Hearts for Education

Why uhfe?

Education is and will continue to be a transformative tool - not only positively impacts households but also nations at large. Many countries have developed significantly by improving access and quality of education for their citizens, providing skilled human capital for the national (and global) economies. In Uganda, the universal primary and secondary education, affirmative action and skilling programs implemented over the last decade have evidently contributed to an improvement in the number of children attaining formal education. However, the COVID-19 pandemic has posed an immense negative impact on this sector, undoing most of the gains made in the past. The pandemic has hit hard guardians and parents rendering many of them unable to continue paying school dues and scholastic materials while it remains uncertain how many children will manage to continue with education when schools finally open. Many girls have become pregnant while boys are now busy looking for money to sustain their lives.

We are the Universal Hearts for Education (uhfe), a non-profit organization founded to extend educational support and break barriers to effective learning for vulnerable learners at different levels in Uganda.

We believe that access to education, as indicated in the sustainable development goals (SDGs), is a universal right. Guided by our Christian values, we serve with utmost diligence, integrity, and accountability.

Who does UHFE support?

uhfe supports vulnerable children and youth in Uganda, irrespective of their religion, sex or tribe, to access education and skills. We believe that it's not only our duty but also responsibility to empower those with limited opportunities to advance their education goals. Through the generosity of our friends, we have so far managed to assist some students to continue and others to complete their education. For some, we pay only tuition/school fees, others we also provide scholastic materials and others have special requirements like hostel fees and upkeep. In so doing, uhfe is creating a family of revolving educational support as those who benefit, are expected (but not required) to sow at least a seed upon being gainfully (self-) employed and start earning.

Who funds UHFE?

uhfe is currently funded by individuals (mainly founders), but we invite more individuals and organizations to join us. At uhfe , we believe “we cannot help everyone but everyone can help someone” (Ronald Reagan). Your support can be channeled directly to the institution of the learner selected following our criteria or indirectly through us. Using our structures, you are certain that your contribution targets the intended leaners.

Why partner with UHFE?

You will join a family of individuals and firms that are making a difference in people’s lives towards their education goals and contributing to the social and economic transformation of Uganda.
